Big turnout for Belmont awards

MORE than 350 people attended the Belmont Small Business Awards night at Burswood Entertainment Complex on Wednesday, October 31.

Organised by the Belmont Small Business Enterprise Centre, the awards offer small and fledgling enterprises a chance to be recognised for their efforts in putting business ideas into practice successfully.

The awards have grown in popularity and profile since they were launched in 1994 and now attract entries from around WA across 22 award categories. The awards night also provided a showcase for the Design Edge fashion incubator national training and mentoring project, focusing on young designers and designers from a multicultural or indigenous background.

Belmont MLA Eric Ripper, Victoria Park MLA Ben Wyatt, WA Senator Alan Eggleston, Swan MHR Kim Wilkie and Liberal candidate for Swan Steve Irons were among the distinguished guests.
